

District redraw to attract new faces

With Lake County divided into two Ohio Senate districts as part of the changes approved Wednesday by the state Reapportionment Board, new names and faces might represent the area and not live in the county.

The new Ohio Senate District 21 will include House Districts 8 and 10 in Cuyahoga County and District 60, which will include parts of western and northern Lake County and Painesville.

Districts 8 and 10 stretch into parts of Cleveland, plus Beachwood, East Cleveland, Euclid, Richmond Heights, South Euclid and Woodmere.

Term-limited state Reps. Kenny Yuko, D-Richmond Heights, and Lorraine M. Fende, D-Willowick, might have an interest in Senate District 21 although with two-thirds of the district's population living in Cuyahoga County, it might make it hard for Fende, whose base is in Lake County. Perhaps she might move?

The new Senate district might also open the door for someone like former state Rep. Ed Jerse, a Euclid Democrat.

Any state representative candidates for House District 8 would have to likely have to challenge state Rep. Armond Budish, D-Beachwood, who is the Ohio House Minority Leader. District 10 includes parts of Cleveland, plus Bratenahl Village.

With Willoughby Hills moved to House District 61, who might take a shot at House District 60 with Fende unable to seek re-election?

District 60 will consist of Eastlake, Fairport Harbor, Grand River, Lakeline,

John Arthur Hutchison

Mentor Ward 4, Mentor-on-the-Lake, Painesville, part of Painesville Township, Timberlake, Wickliffe, Willoughby and Willowick.

The changes takes Willoughby Hills Councilman David Feibig, a Republican who ran against Fende two years ago, and Council President Kevin Malecek, a Democrat, out of the running, since they won't live in the new district.

Mentor Ward 4 will be part of District 60 and also is the home of Mentor Councilman Ronald L. Micchia.

If they wanted, the door is also open for Willowick residents such as Council President Judy Moran and even Lake County Commissioner Daniel P. Troy, a former state representative who served in Columbus for years.

Running for commissioner?

So far, four people have officially taken out candidacy petitions to run for Lake County commissioner next year: Commissioner Robert E. Aufuldish, former Eastlake Councilman Derek W. Elshaw; Madison Village Council President John R. Hamercheck; and Robert Murphy, who ran in 2010 against Troy.

The terms on the ballot in 2012 are currently held by Aufuldish and Commissioner Raymond E. Sines.

Household hazardous wastes now being collected year-round

TONYA SAMS
Plain Dealer Reporter 10-3-11

City service departments in Cuyahoga County are accepting household hazardous wastes year-round for the first time under a new program.

The county Solid Waste Management District started the service in April.

It replaces a program that allowed residents to drop off materials such as pesticides, polyurethane and paint thinners, to the county fairgrounds in Berea two times a year.

Under the new program, wastes collected by the county's 59 communities are taken to a new county Special Waste Convenience Center in Garfield Heights. The center is not open to the public.

"We help cities and residents dispose of these materials by having a convenient drop-off," said Diane Bickert, the executive director of the county waste management district. "They don't have to store them in their garages or basements because it can be a potential hazard to their children and pets."

The 34,000-square-foot convenience center is located in a former bowling alley, which the waste district is leasing for $170,000 per year.

Money for the center comes from a 50-cent-per-ton increase in county dumping fees imposed in 2007.

At the center, the Cleveland Harbor Environmental Service handles materials and ships the wastes to treatment and disposal facilities. Some materials are recycled, Bickert said.

Drop-offs are free to Cuyahoga County residents. The program does not accept material such as radioactive and medical waste, explosives and latex paint.
